

EL RANCHO DE LAS GOLONDRINAS

The Southwest's Premier Living History Museum

PAINTING ON MUSEUM GROUNDS

Individual Day-Use Painting Pass

El Rancho de Las Golondrinas is a historic ranch, now a living history Museum, that dates back to the early 1700s and was an important paraje or stopping place along the famous Camino Real, the Royal Road from Mexico City to Santa Fe. As a result, the Museum's outdoor features offer several picturesque opportunities for individuals or classes to paint outdoors, known as "Plein Air Painting." Due to the size and equipment required for this activity the Museum requires individuals to obtain a Day-Use Painting Pass.

Day-Use Painting Pass

- All painting classes and groups require advanced notice and should be scheduled with the Director of Special Events and Site Rentals in advance.

*El Rancho de Las Golondrinas defines "Painting Class" as the act of painting outdoors with an instructor or group.

- All painters are required to sign the Individual Day-Use Painting Agreement before they are allowed access to Museum Grounds.
- Individual Day-Use Painting Passes are available for $25 per day. Pass is only valid and accepted day of.
- In addition to the Day-Use Pass, any and all painters, assistants, participants, models, or clients must also pay the regular admission fee to the Museum.
- Upon signing the Agreement the Day-Use Pass becomes valid.
- The Museum holds many events on the grounds throughout the summer season therefore we will decline any/all painting requests when an event is already scheduled. Unscheduled painting classes and groups will also be turned away; therefore, reservations are required and accepted up to 30 days in advance of your visit. For reservations please contact the Director of Special Events and Site Rentals: Vic Macias (505) 471-2261 x205 victor.macias@golondrinas.org

Plein Air Agreement
